

WHERE IS THE GLORY

words and music by Chris LeDoux

verse

When I was a lad - an old cow-boy told me, "Well son, you're sure rid-in' well. - There's fame and there's for-tune an' glo-ry wait-in' at the end of the ro-de-o trail!"
So I packed up my stuff in my old pick-up truck to fol-low my ro-de-o dreams. Now I'm fin-ally on top, but I feel like a flop, 'cause I've spent all the for-tune I've seen.
Now, where is the glo - ry in driv-in' all night down a high-way that's head-ed to no-where. What good's the fame
- when the for-tune's all gone and the dreams turned in-to a night-mare. Like Ed Bruce said, Ma-ma's, don't let your ba-bies grow up to be cow-boys." I'm inclined to a-gree - but if you ask me, you know I'd go through it a-gain. —

2nd verse : Now, what does it take to be a rodeo cowboy
I guess I'm a expert at that Takes a whole lot of guts and old lady luck
But not too much under his hat
Well, he thrives on the crowds yellin' real loud
For him to face dyin' again
But the good lord takes care of children and fools
He's no kid, so what's that make him.

Chorus - repeat and fade
